Summary of this inspection

Why we carried out this inspection

We carried out this inspection to check whether Kingsland House had taken action to meet the following essential standards:

- Management of medicines

This was an unannounced inspection.

How we carried out this inspection

We looked at the personal care or treatment records of people who use the service, carried out a visit on 9 December 2013, reviewed information given to us by the provider and took advice from our pharmacist.

What people told us and what we found

We visited Kingsland in August 2013 and noted some improvements needed to be made in order to achieve full compliance with the management of medicines. We requested an action plan from the provider and this action plan was submitted promptly, indicating the issues identified, the actions required, and completion dates. We have contacted the provider, and we spoke with the registered manager, the head of clinical care, and consulted documentation that was provided. We found that action had been taken to achieve compliance.

You can see our judgements on the front page of this report.

More information about the provider

Please see our website www.cqc.org.uk for more information, including our most recent judgements against the essential standards. You can contact us using the telephone number on the back of the report if you have additional questions.

There is a glossary at the back of this report which has definitions for words and phrases we use in the report.

Our judgements for each standard inspected

Management of medicines ✓ Met this standard

People should be given the medicines they need when they need them, and in a safe way

Our judgement

The provider was meeting this standard.

People were protected against the risks associated with medicines because the provider had appropriate arrangements in place to manage medicines.

Reasons for our judgement

Appropriate arrangements were in place in relation to the recording of medicine. Medicines were handled appropriately, were kept safely and were safely administered. We have contacted the home's general manager and the clinical nurse manager in December 2013, to ensure that the action plan relevant to the management of medicine had been implemented, and consulted documentation that confirmed this.

We found that all registered nurses received individual copies of 'Barchester Healthcare Medication Policy' and 'Nursing and Midwifery Council (NMC) Standards for Medicines Management'. We saw that registered nurses' meetings were held monthly and that all issues that were highlighted in our previous inspection report were discussed and addressed with practical action. We saw minutes that confirmed this. Progress with the provider's action plan was reviewed as part of monthly medication provider visits. The last visit from Boots the Chemist was on 26 October 2013 and minor recommendations were implemented the same day to their satisfaction. The regional director and senior regional director for Barchester had also ensured that all actions were implemented and had carried out audits in October 2013 that confirmed this.

We spoke with the general manager who confirmed that all nurses' medication competencies were up to date. The clinical nurse manager told us that regular meetings were held to remind nurses of the need to either sign medication as administered or to record appropriately the reason for omission of medication. Registered nurses were required to conduct end of shift checks to identify any unexplained gaps and to contact individuals responsible and complete an incident form for the general manager's attention. This was complemented by an auditing process carried out by the deputy general manager. Since this was implemented, there had been no omission of medication and no gaps in medication administration records.

Controlled drugs were given as prescribed at specified intervals, and were administered as close to the same time as possible to ensure effective pain relief. Times of administration were recorded in a controlled drugs book which was checked weekly as well as daily medical administration record sheets.

Care plans included guidance on the management of all 'only if needed' medication and a copy of the homely remedy guidance for non-prescribed medicines. The administration of such medicines was recorded on the medical administration record sheets. The deputy general manager ensured all care plans were updated and included an audit of medication administration at each review of the care plans. This auditing process was on-going. We were told that the cupboard containing controlled drugs in Memory Lane's clinical room was now bolted to the wall, complying with the Misuse of Drugs (Safe Custody) Regulations).

About CQC inspections

We are the regulator of health and social care in England.

All providers of regulated health and social care services have a legal responsibility to make sure they are meeting essential standards of quality and safety. These are the standards everyone should be able to expect when they receive care.

The essential standards are described in the Health and Social Care Act 2008 (Regulated Activities) Regulations 2010 and the Care Quality Commission (Registration) Regulations 2009. We regulate against these standards, which we sometimes describe as "government standards".

We carry out unannounced inspections of all care homes, acute hospitals and domiciliary care services in England at least once a year to judge whether or not the essential standards are being met. We carry out inspections of other services less often. All of our inspections are unannounced unless there is a good reason to let the provider know we are coming.

There are 16 essential standards that relate most directly to the quality and safety of care and these are grouped into five key areas. When we inspect we could check all or part of any of the 16 standards at any time depending on the individual circumstances of the service. Because of this we often check different standards at different times.

When we inspect, we always visit and we do things like observe how people are cared for, and we talk to people who use the service, to their carers and to staff. We also review information we have gathered about the provider, check the service's records and check whether the right systems and processes are in place.

We focus on whether or not the provider is meeting the standards and we are guided by whether people are experiencing the outcomes they should be able to expect when the standards are being met. By outcomes we mean the impact care has on the health, safety and welfare of people who use the service, and the experience they have whilst receiving it.

Our inspectors judge if any action is required by the provider of the service to improve the standard of care being provided. Where providers are non-compliant with the regulations, we take enforcement action against them. If we require a service to take action, or if we take enforcement action, we re-inspect it before its next routine inspection was due. This could mean we re-inspect a service several times in one year. We also might decide to re-inspect a service if new concerns emerge about it before the next routine inspection.

In between inspections we continually monitor information we have about providers. The information comes from the public, the provider, other organisations, and from care workers.

You can tell us about your experience of this provider on our website.

How we define our judgements

The following pages show our findings and regulatory judgement for each essential standard or part of the standard that we inspected. Our judgements are based on the ongoing review and analysis of the information gathered by CQC about this provider and the evidence collected during this inspection.

We reach one of the following judgements for each essential standard inspected.

✓ Met this standard	This means that the standard was being met in that the provider was compliant with the regulation. If we find that standards were met, we take no regulatory action but we may make comments that may be useful to the provider and to the public about minor improvements that could be made.
✖ Action needed	This means that the standard was not being met in that the provider was non-compliant with the regulation. We may have set a compliance action requiring the provider to produce a report setting out how and by when changes will be made to make sure they comply with the standard. We monitor the implementation of action plans in these reports and, if necessary, take further action. We may have identified a breach of a regulation which is more serious, and we will make sure action is taken. We will report on this when it is complete.
✖ Enforcement action taken	If the breach of the regulation was more serious, or there have been several or continual breaches, we have a range of actions we take using the criminal and/or civil procedures in the Health and Social Care Act 2008 and relevant regulations. These enforcement powers include issuing a warning notice; restricting or suspending the services a provider can offer, or the number of people it can care for; issuing fines and formal cautions; in extreme cases, cancelling a provider or managers registration or prosecuting a manager or provider. These enforcement powers are set out in law and mean that we can take swift, targeted action where services are failing people.

Where we find non-compliance with a regulation (or part of a regulation), we state which part of the regulation has been breached. Only where there is non compliance with one or more of Regulations 9-24 of the Regulated Activity Regulations, will our report include a judgement about the level of impact on people who use the service (and others, if appropriate to the regulation). This could be a minor, moderate or major impact.

Minor impact - people who use the service experienced poor care that had an impact on their health, safety or welfare or there was a risk of this happening. The impact was not significant and the matter could be managed or resolved quickly.

Moderate impact - people who use the service experienced poor care that had a significant effect on their health, safety or welfare or there was a risk of this happening. The matter may need to be resolved quickly.

Major impact - people who use the service experienced poor care that had a serious current or long term impact on their health, safety and welfare, or there was a risk of this happening. The matter needs to be resolved quickly

We decide the most appropriate action to take to ensure that the necessary changes are made. We always follow up to check whether action has been taken to meet the standards.
