Summary of this inspection

Why we carried out this inspection

We carried out this inspection to check whether Hilldales Residential Care Home had taken action to meet the following essential standards:

- Records

This was an unannounced inspection.

How we carried out this inspection

We looked at the personal care or treatment records of people who use the service, carried out a visit on 20 November 2013 and talked with staff.

What people told us and what we found

We carried out this responsive follow up inspection to check compliance in outcome 21-records. When we inspected as part of our planned schedule of inspections in July 2013, we found some records had not been accurately maintained. We asked the provider to send us an action plan to show us how they intended to be compliant. We received an action plan, which included new formats for audit tools in fire training, fire safety checks, cleaning audits and checking care plans were in place for all new people living at the home.

We spoke with the manager, who is not registered with CQC, with the office manager, senior carer and care staff member. We heard how the new forms had been developed to ensure compliance, and these were sent to the registered provider on a weekly basis for their assurance they were being completed.

We saw fortnightly audits had been completed on fire safety within the home. All staff had received updated training in fire safety in August and all names of staff who attended were recorded.

The senior care staff were completing monthly audit of cleaning work completed and each cleaner had a set routine of areas to be cleaned each day and what was needed weekly.

You can see our judgements on the front page of this report.

More information about the provider

Please see our website www.cqc.org.uk for more information, including our most recent judgements against the essential standards. You can contact us using the telephone number on the back of the report if you have additional questions.

There is a glossary at the back of this report which has definitions for words and phrases we use in the report.

Our judgements for each standard inspected

Records

✓ Met this standard

People's personal records, including medical records, should be accurate and kept safe and confidential

Our judgement

The provider was meeting this standard.

People were protected from the risks of unsafe or inappropriate care and treatment because accurate and appropriate records were maintained.

Reasons for our judgement

When we inspected this service in July 2013, we found gaps in their records, which had the potential to place people at risk. The staff were unable to locate a care plan for a new person to the service. This meant staff did not have access to accurate information about this person. We found there were gaps in the fire checks and there was no record of when staff had last received fire training. We also found there were no records of how the cleaning and infection control was being audited.

The provider sent us an action plan within a short timeframe of their inspection being completed. This included details of new forms and audits being introduced. We wanted to check these had been fully implemented and the service had achieved compliance.

We spent time talking to the manager, office manager and senior care staff. We heard how they were using new audit tools to ensure records were accurately maintained.

We looked at the care plans for two new people. We saw a form had been developed, which needed the signature of key members of the staff team, to ensure care plans were developed as soon as a new person was admitted to the service.

We looked at the records relating to fire safety checks and saw these had been completed every two weeks. The records also showed staff had received updated training in fire safety. We saw monthly cleaning audits were being completed, with suggestions recorded about any improvements or outstanding areas needing to be addressed. We heard how the service had employed a new cleaner and the domestic team had daily tasks to ensure the home stayed clean and protected people from infection, and weekly tasks to ensure people's rooms had a more through clean.

We heard how records and audits were sent to the registered provider and concluded records relevant to the management of the services were accurate and fit for purpose.

About CQC inspections

We are the regulator of health and social care in England.

All providers of regulated health and social care services have a legal responsibility to make sure they are meeting essential standards of quality and safety. These are the standards everyone should be able to expect when they receive care.

The essential standards are described in the Health and Social Care Act 2008 (Regulated Activities) Regulations 2010 and the Care Quality Commission (Registration) Regulations 2009. We regulate against these standards, which we sometimes describe as "government standards".

We carry out unannounced inspections of all care homes, acute hospitals and domiciliary care services in England at least once a year to judge whether or not the essential standards are being met. We carry out inspections of other services less often. All of our inspections are unannounced unless there is a good reason to let the provider know we are coming.

There are 16 essential standards that relate most directly to the quality and safety of care and these are grouped into five key areas. When we inspect we could check all or part of any of the 16 standards at any time depending on the individual circumstances of the service. Because of this we often check different standards at different times.

When we inspect, we always visit and we do things like observe how people are cared for, and we talk to people who use the service, to their carers and to staff. We also review information we have gathered about the provider, check the service's records and check whether the right systems and processes are in place.

We focus on whether or not the provider is meeting the standards and we are guided by whether people are experiencing the outcomes they should be able to expect when the standards are being met. By outcomes we mean the impact care has on the health, safety and welfare of people who use the service, and the experience they have whilst receiving it.

Our inspectors judge if any action is required by the provider of the service to improve the standard of care being provided. Where providers are non-compliant with the regulations, we take enforcement action against them. If we require a service to take action, or if we take enforcement action, we re-inspect it before its next routine inspection was due. This could mean we re-inspect a service several times in one year. We also might decide to re-inspect a service if new concerns emerge about it before the next routine inspection.

In between inspections we continually monitor information we have about providers. The information comes from the public, the provider, other organisations, and from care workers.

You can tell us about your experience of this provider on our website.

How we define our judgements

The following pages show our findings and regulatory judgement for each essential standard or part of the standard that we inspected. Our judgements are based on the ongoing review and analysis of the information gathered by CQC about this provider and the evidence collected during this inspection.

We reach one of the following judgements for each essential standard inspected.

✓ Met this standard This means that the standard was being met in that the provider was compliant with the regulation. If we find that standards were met, we take no regulatory action but we may make comments that may be useful to the provider and to the public about minor improvements that could be made.

✗ Action needed This means that the standard was not being met in that the provider was non-compliant with the regulation. We may have set a compliance action requiring the provider to produce a report setting out how and by when changes will be made to make sure they comply with the standard. We monitor the implementation of action plans in these reports and, if necessary, take further action. We may have identified a breach of a regulation which is more serious, and we will make sure action is taken. We will report on this when it is complete.

✗ Enforcement action taken If the breach of the regulation was more serious, or there have been several or continual breaches, we have a range of actions we take using the criminal and/or civil procedures in the Health and Social Care Act 2008 and relevant regulations. These enforcement powers include issuing a warning notice; restricting or suspending the services a provider can offer, or the number of people it can care for; issuing fines and formal cautions; in extreme cases, cancelling a provider or managers registration or prosecuting a manager or provider. These enforcement powers are set out in law and mean that we can take swift, targeted action where services are failing people.

Where we find non-compliance with a regulation (or part of a regulation), we state which part of the regulation has been breached. Only where there is non compliance with one or more of Regulations 9-24 of the Regulated Activity Regulations, will our report include a judgement about the level of impact on people who use the service (and others, if appropriate to the regulation). This could be a minor, moderate or major impact.

Minor impact - people who use the service experienced poor care that had an impact on their health, safety or welfare or there was a risk of this happening. The impact was not significant and the matter could be managed or resolved quickly.

Moderate impact - people who use the service experienced poor care that had a significant effect on their health, safety or welfare or there was a risk of this happening. The matter may need to be resolved quickly.

Major impact - people who use the service experienced poor care that had a serious current or long term impact on their health, safety and welfare, or there was a risk of this happening. The matter needs to be resolved quickly

We decide the most appropriate action to take to ensure that the necessary changes are made. We always follow up to check whether action has been taken to meet the standards.
