Summary of this inspection

Why we carried out this inspection

We carried out this inspection to check whether Oaktree Care Home had taken action to meet the following essential standards:

- Safeguarding people who use services from abuse
- Management of medicines
- Staffing

This was an unannounced inspection.

How we carried out this inspection

We carried out a visit on 5 March 2013.

We spoke with the manager and looked at records.

What people told us and what we found

We carried out this inspection because previously we did not follow up on arrangements where there were concerns expressed. These related to safeguarding and arrangements for the administration of medicines. In addition there were some concerns about staffing arrangements.

At this inspection we found the home to be compliant with the outcomes. Staff had received safeguarding training and knew about the importance of reporting suspicions of abuse. The home had continued to alert the local council to suspicions of abuse.

There were regular audits of the arrangements for administering medicines and where actions were identified these were responded to.

Recruitment of staff ensured there were sufficient numbers of workers to support people.

You can see our judgements on the front page of this report.

More information about the provider

Please see our website www.cqc.org.uk for more information, including our most recent judgements against the essential standards. You can contact us using the telephone number on the back of the report if you have additional questions.

There is a glossary at the back of this report which has definitions for words and phrases we use in the report.

Our judgements for each standard inspected

Safeguarding people who use services from abuse ✓ Met this standard

People should be protected from abuse and staff should respect their human rights

Our judgement

The provider was meeting this standard.

People who used the service were protected from the risk of abuse, because the provider had taken reasonable steps to identify the possibility of abuse and prevent abuse from happening

Reasons for our judgement

When we inspected the service in August 2012 the provider was meeting this outcome. People told us they felt safe. Staff we spoke with said they had completed training related to protecting people. They understood the different types of abuse and knew about the importance of reporting suspicions of abuse. The training records examined as part of this inspection showed that 91% of staff had completed training.

The provider responded appropriately to any allegation of abuse. The home continued to report issues and had developed a good relationship with the local council safeguarding adult's team. Appropriate alerts had been made and investigated.

An audit conducted by the home manager and verified by the regional manager in February 2013 showed that the home was fully compliant with arrangements for safeguarding.

The local council sent providers of services in the area a questionnaire to check on safeguarding arrangements including the training of staff. The manager showed us they had completed the questionnaire and had received the free training pack issued by the council to those who responded.

People should be given the medicines they need when they need them, and in a safe way

Our judgement

The provider was meeting this standard.

People were protected against the risks associated with medicines because the provider had appropriate arrangements in place to manage medicines.

Reasons for our judgement

Medicines were handled appropriately. The organisation used a 'home audit process' (HAP). This included looking at arrangements for the administration of medicines. When we inspected the home in August 2012 we did not look at the arrangements but on an earlier inspection there were concerns expressed.

The HAP completed in October 2012 by the home manager identified actions to be completed to ensure compliance with this outcome. The manager told us the actions were completed immediately. The regional manager checked to confirm actions arising from the HAP had been completed on a monthly basis that included a random check of medicines. An audit of medicines completed in March 2013 showed compliance.

Staffing

✓ Met this standard

There should be enough members of staff to keep people safe and meet their health and welfare needs

Our judgement

The provider was meeting this standard.

There were enough qualified, skilled and experienced staff to meet people's needs.

Reasons for our judgement

When we inspected the home in August 2012 we did not look at the staffing arrangements but during an earlier inspection there were concerns expressed.

The manager told us there had been a turnover of staff and that there had been good responses to recent advertisements for new workers. They said there was now a full complement of registered nurses and three new bank staff had been recruited. They would be offered permanent employment when available.

The activities coordinator had left but a replacement had commenced employment on the day of our visit.

About CQC inspections

We are the regulator of health and social care in England.

All providers of regulated health and social care services have a legal responsibility to make sure they are meeting essential standards of quality and safety. These are the standards everyone should be able to expect when they receive care.

The essential standards are described in the Health and Social Care Act 2008 (Regulated Activities) Regulations 2010 and the Care Quality Commission (Registration) Regulations 2009. We regulate against these standards, which we sometimes describe as "government standards".

We carry out unannounced inspections of all care homes, acute hospitals and domiciliary care services in England at least once a year to judge whether or not the essential standards are being met. We carry out inspections of dentists and other services at least once every two years. All of our inspections are unannounced unless there is a good reason to let the provider know we are coming.

There are 16 essential standards that relate most directly to the quality and safety of care and these are grouped into five key areas. When we inspect we could check all or part of any of the 16 standards at any time depending on the individual circumstances of the service. Because of this we often check different standards at different times but we always inspect at least one standard from each of the five key areas every year. We may check fewer key areas in the case of dentists and some other services.

When we inspect, we always visit and we do things like observe how people are cared for, and we talk to people who use the service, to their carers and to staff. We also review information we have gathered about the provider, check the service's records and check whether the right systems and processes are in place.

We focus on whether or not the provider is meeting the standards and we are guided by whether people are experiencing the outcomes they should be able to expect when the standards are being met. By outcomes we mean the impact care has on the health, safety and welfare of people who use the service, and the experience they have whilst receiving it.

Our inspectors judge if any action is required by the provider of the service to improve the standard of care being provided. Where providers are non-compliant with the regulations, we take enforcement action against them. If we require a service to take action, or if we take enforcement action, we re-inspect it before its next routine inspection was due. This could mean we re-inspect a service several times in one year. We also might decide to re-inspect a service if new concerns emerge about it before the next routine inspection.

In between inspections we continually monitor information we have about providers. The information comes from the public, the provider, other organisations, and from care workers.

You can tell us about your experience of this provider on our website.

How we define our judgements

The following pages show our findings and regulatory judgement for each essential standard or part of the standard that we inspected. Our judgements are based on the ongoing review and analysis of the information gathered by CQC about this provider and the evidence collected during this inspection.

We reach one of the following judgements for each essential standard inspected.

✓ Met this standard This means that the standard was being met in that the provider was compliant with the regulation. If we find that standards were met, we take no regulatory action but we may make comments that may be useful to the provider and to the public about minor improvements that could be made.

✗ Action needed This means that the standard was not being met in that the provider was non-compliant with the regulation. We may have set a compliance action requiring the provider to produce a report setting out how and by when changes will be made to make sure they comply with the standard. We monitor the implementation of action plans in these reports and, if necessary, take further action. We may have identified a breach of a regulation which is more serious, and we will make sure action is taken. We will report on this when it is complete.

✗ Enforcement action taken If the breach of the regulation was more serious, or there have been several or continual breaches, we have a range of actions we take using the criminal and/or civil procedures in the Health and Social Care Act 2008 and relevant regulations. These enforcement powers include issuing a warning notice; restricting or suspending the services a provider can offer, or the number of people it can care for; issuing fines and formal cautions; in extreme cases, cancelling a provider or managers registration or prosecuting a manager or provider. These enforcement powers are set out in law and mean that we can take swift, targeted action where services are failing people.

Where we find non-compliance with a regulation (or part of a regulation), we state which part of the regulation has been breached. We make a judgement about the level of impact on people who use the service (and others, if appropriate to the regulation) from the breach. This could be a minor, moderate or major impact.

Minor impact – people who use the service experienced poor care that had an impact on their health, safety or welfare or there was a risk of this happening. The impact was not significant and the matter could be managed or resolved quickly.

Moderate impact – people who use the service experienced poor care that had a significant effect on their health, safety or welfare or there was a risk of this happening. The matter may need to be resolved quickly.

Major impact – people who use the service experienced poor care that had a serious current or long term impact on their health, safety and welfare, or there was a risk of this happening. The matter needs to be resolved quickly

We decide the most appropriate action to take to ensure that the necessary changes are made. We always follow up to check whether action has been taken to meet the standards.
