Summary of this inspection

Why we carried out this inspection

---

We carried out this inspection to check whether Toothcare Limited had taken action to meet the following essential standards:

- Cleanliness and infection control
- Supporting workers
- Assessing and monitoring the quality of service provision

This was an announced inspection.

How we carried out this inspection

---

We looked at the personal care or treatment records of people who use the service, carried out a visit on 15 January 2014, talked with staff and reviewed information given to us by the provider.

---

What people told us and what we found

---

When we visited the practice we found that the people who used the service and staff were protected against the risks of a health care related infection.

Instruments that had been used were being cleaned and sterilised in line with published guidance and then stored correctly. Records held at the practice demonstrated that the cleaning and sterilising equipment were in correct working order and subject to daily and weekly checks. Staff wore clean uniforms daily and did not wear them when travelling to and from work.

Staff were now receiving annual appraisals and regular supervision. Documents we viewed reflected that all staff had received an appraisal.

The provider now had a full range of audits to monitor the quality of the services they provided. Staff meetings took place regularly and minutes were taken.

You can see our judgements on the front page of this report.

More information about the provider

---

Please see our website www.cqc.org.uk for more information, including our most recent judgements against the essential standards. You can contact us using the telephone number on the back of the report if you have additional questions.

There is a glossary at the back of this report which has definitions for words and phrases we use in the report.

Our judgements for each standard inspected

Cleanliness and infection control

✓ Met this standard

People should be cared for in a clean environment and protected from the risk of infection

Our judgement

The provider was meeting this standard.

People were cared for in a clean, hygienic environment.

Reasons for our judgement

When we visited the practice we found that there were effective systems in place to reduce the risk and spread of infection.

Instruments that had been used were cleaned and sterilised in line with published guidance. The practice used a combination of manual cleaning and an ultrasonic bath prior to the sterilisation process. Instruments were then bagged, sealed, dated and stored correctly.

The equipment used for the cleaning and sterilising process was monitored regularly to ensure it was working correctly. Records we viewed demonstrated that all relevant maintenance checks had taken place and that the equipment was achieving the required temperatures to clean and sterilise the instruments effectively.

Staff wore clean uniforms to work daily and we observed that they were being worn on the day of our visit. A daily cleaning schedule was now in place that described the procedures to follow to clean the surgery and other parts of the practice. Records we viewed over several months reflected that cleaning was being undertaken and monitored by the provider. All areas of the practice were clean and tidy.

Staff should be properly trained and supervised, and have the chance to develop and improve their skills

Our judgement

The provider was meeting this standard.

People were cared for by staff who were supported to deliver care and treatment safely and to an appropriate standard.

Reasons for our judgement

Prior to visiting the practice the provider sent us documents that reflected that all staff had received support, supervision and an annual appraisal.

Each appraisal contained details about their performance, objectives, training needs and any opportunities for development. Where areas for improvement had been identified these were recorded and monitored through daily supervision.

Staff meetings took place monthly which provided an opportunity to discuss performance issues and any support that was required. We looked at the minutes of three meetings and they showed that staff were able to discuss issues about the practice and their role. Staff received appropriate support and professional development.

Assessing and monitoring the quality of service provision

✓ Met this standard

The service should have quality checking systems to manage risks and assure the health, welfare and safety of people who receive care

Our judgement

The provider was meeting this standard.

The provider had an effective system to regularly assess and monitor the quality of service that people received.

Reasons for our judgement

When we visited the provider we found that a full range of audits were now in place to enable the provider to assess and monitor the services they provided.

We looked at the most recent infection control audit that had been undertaken in September 2013. The subsequent analysis of it had identified areas for improvement and an action plan was in place with a timescale for completion.

We also viewed other audits that had been completed and these included x-ray quality, patient clinical record content, management of clinical waste and equipment in use at the practice.

Staff meetings were now being held and we viewed the minutes of three of those meetings. We found that staff had an opportunity to express their views about the way the service was managed to enable the provider to make improvements where necessary.

About CQC inspections

We are the regulator of health and social care in England.

All providers of regulated health and social care services have a legal responsibility to make sure they are meeting essential standards of quality and safety. These are the standards everyone should be able to expect when they receive care.

The essential standards are described in the Health and Social Care Act 2008 (Regulated Activities) Regulations 2010 and the Care Quality Commission (Registration) Regulations 2009. We regulate against these standards, which we sometimes describe as "government standards".

We carry out unannounced inspections of all care homes, acute hospitals and domiciliary care services in England at least once a year to judge whether or not the essential standards are being met. We carry out inspections of other services less often. All of our inspections are unannounced unless there is a good reason to let the provider know we are coming.

There are 16 essential standards that relate most directly to the quality and safety of care and these are grouped into five key areas. When we inspect we could check all or part of any of the 16 standards at any time depending on the individual circumstances of the service. Because of this we often check different standards at different times.

When we inspect, we always visit and we do things like observe how people are cared for, and we talk to people who use the service, to their carers and to staff. We also review information we have gathered about the provider, check the service's records and check whether the right systems and processes are in place.

We focus on whether or not the provider is meeting the standards and we are guided by whether people are experiencing the outcomes they should be able to expect when the standards are being met. By outcomes we mean the impact care has on the health, safety and welfare of people who use the service, and the experience they have whilst receiving it.

Our inspectors judge if any action is required by the provider of the service to improve the standard of care being provided. Where providers are non-compliant with the regulations, we take enforcement action against them. If we require a service to take action, or if we take enforcement action, we re-inspect it before its next routine inspection was due. This could mean we re-inspect a service several times in one year. We also might decide to re-inspect a service if new concerns emerge about it before the next routine inspection.

In between inspections we continually monitor information we have about providers. The information comes from the public, the provider, other organisations, and from care workers.

You can tell us about your experience of this provider on our website.

How we define our judgements

The following pages show our findings and regulatory judgement for each essential standard or part of the standard that we inspected. Our judgements are based on the ongoing review and analysis of the information gathered by CQC about this provider and the evidence collected during this inspection.

We reach one of the following judgements for each essential standard inspected.

 Met this standard This means that the standard was being met in that the provider was compliant with the regulation. If we find that standards were met, we take no regulatory action but we may make comments that may be useful to the provider and to the public about minor improvements that could be made.

 Action needed This means that the standard was not being met in that the provider was non-compliant with the regulation. We may have set a compliance action requiring the provider to produce a report setting out how and by when changes will be made to make sure they comply with the standard. We monitor the implementation of action plans in these reports and, if necessary, take further action. We may have identified a breach of a regulation which is more serious, and we will make sure action is taken. We will report on this when it is complete.

 Enforcement action taken If the breach of the regulation was more serious, or there have been several or continual breaches, we have a range of actions we take using the criminal and/or civil procedures in the Health and Social Care Act 2008 and relevant regulations. These enforcement powers include issuing a warning notice; restricting or suspending the services a provider can offer, or the number of people it can care for; issuing fines and formal cautions; in extreme cases, cancelling a provider or managers registration or prosecuting a manager or provider. These enforcement powers are set out in law and mean that we can take swift, targeted action where services are failing people.

How we define our judgements (continued)

Where we find non-compliance with a regulation (or part of a regulation), we state which part of the regulation has been breached. Only where there is non compliance with one or more of Regulations 9-24 of the Regulated Activity Regulations, will our report include a judgement about the level of impact on people who use the service (and others, if appropriate to the regulation). This could be a minor, moderate or major impact.

Minor impact - people who use the service experienced poor care that had an impact on their health, safety or welfare or there was a risk of this happening. The impact was not significant and the matter could be managed or resolved quickly.

---

Moderate impact - people who use the service experienced poor care that had a significant effect on their health, safety or welfare or there was a risk of this happening. The matter may need to be resolved quickly.

---

Major impact - people who use the service experienced poor care that had a serious current or long term impact on their health, safety and welfare, or there was a risk of this happening. The matter needs to be resolved quickly

---

We decide the most appropriate action to take to ensure that the necessary changes are made. We always follow up to check whether action has been taken to meet the standards.
