Summary of this follow up review

Why we carried out this review

We carried out an inspection on 19 February 2014 and published a report setting out our judgements. We asked the provider to send us a report of the changes they would make to comply with the standards they were not meeting.

We have followed up to make sure that the necessary changes have been made and found the provider is now meeting the standard(s) included within this report. This report should be read in conjunction with the full inspection report.

We have not revisited Holy Name Care Home as part of this review because Holy Name Care Home were able to demonstrate that they were meeting the standards without the need for a visit.

How we carried out this review

---

We looked at the personal care or treatment records of people who use the service.

We have not revisited Holy Name Care Home as part of this review.

What we found about the standards we followed up

---

We found the provider had made improvements to ensure the Commission were informed of important incidents, events and changes, within an acceptable timescale. This meant people who used the service could be assured that incidents which may affect their welfare, health and safety were reported promptly to the Commission and appropriate action could be taken.

You can see our judgements on the front page of this report.

More information about the provider

---

Please see our website www.cqc.org.uk for more information, including our most recent judgements against the essential standards. You can contact us using the telephone number on the back of the report if you have additional questions.

There is a glossary at the back of this report which has definitions for words and phrases we use in the report.

Our judgements for each standard reviewed

Notification of other incidents

✓ Met this standard

The service must tell us about important events that affect people's wellbeing, health and safety

Our judgement

The provider was meeting this standard.

The provider had notified the commission of incidents and events which affected the health, welfare and safety of the people who used the service within the required timescale.

Reasons for our judgement

At the inspection visit in October 2013 we found the service had not notified us of an incident within an acceptable timescale, as required by regulation. We followed this up with the provider. This ensured that people who used the service could be assured that important events and incidents that affected their welfare, health and safety were reported promptly to the Commission and appropriate action was taken where necessary.

We reviewed the records we held and the records held at the service when we visited the service on 19 February 2014. We found the manager had notified us appropriately and within the required timescales of any incidents or events that affected the health, safety and welfare of people who used the service.

During the inspection visit on the 19 February 2014 the manager and clinical nurse manager were able to confirm the notification requirements for the service. This meant that notifications had been made appropriately and staff were aware of their responsibilities.

Notifications – notice of absence

✓ Met this standard

The service must tell us how they will manage the service safely when the person in charge is away

Our judgement

---

The provider was meeting this standard.

The provider understood the requirement to notify the Commission of any absence of the registered manager.

Reasons for our judgement

---

At the inspection in October 2013 we were informed about the management changes at the service. Following this visit we were formally notified about the registered manager's absence. The dates on the notification showed we had not been notified of the absence within an acceptable timescale. We followed this up with the provider as people who used the service needed to have confidence that if the person in charge of their service was absent, it would continue to be properly managed and be able to meet their needs.

About CQC inspections

We are the regulator of health and social care in England.

All providers of regulated health and social care services have a legal responsibility to make sure they are meeting essential standards of quality and safety. These are the standards everyone should be able to expect when they receive care.

The essential standards are described in the Health and Social Care Act 2008 (Regulated Activities) Regulations 2010 and the Care Quality Commission (Registration) Regulations 2009. We regulate against these standards, which we sometimes describe as "government standards".

We carry out unannounced inspections of all care homes, acute hospitals and domiciliary care services in England at least once a year to judge whether or not the essential standards are being met. We carry out inspections of other services less often. All of our inspections are unannounced unless there is a good reason to let the provider know we are coming.

There are 16 essential standards that relate most directly to the quality and safety of care and these are grouped into five key areas. When we inspect we could check all or part of any of the 16 standards at any time depending on the individual circumstances of the service. Because of this we often check different standards at different times.

When we inspect, we always visit and we do things like observe how people are cared for, and we talk to people who use the service, to their carers and to staff. We also review information we have gathered about the provider, check the service's records and check whether the right systems and processes are in place.

We focus on whether or not the provider is meeting the standards and we are guided by whether people are experiencing the outcomes they should be able to expect when the standards are being met. By outcomes we mean the impact care has on the health, safety and welfare of people who use the service, and the experience they have whilst receiving it.

Our inspectors judge if any action is required by the provider of the service to improve the standard of care being provided. Where providers are non-compliant with the regulations, we take enforcement action against them. If we require a service to take action, or if we take enforcement action, we re-inspect it before its next routine inspection was due. This could mean we re-inspect a service several times in one year. We also might decide to re-inspect a service if new concerns emerge about it before the next routine inspection.

In between inspections we continually monitor information we have about providers. The information comes from the public, the provider, other organisations, and from care workers.

You can tell us about your experience of this provider on our website.

How we define our judgements

The following pages show our findings and regulatory judgement for each essential standard or part of the standard that we inspected. Our judgements are based on the ongoing review and analysis of the information gathered by CQC about this provider and the evidence collected during this inspection.

We reach one of the following judgements for each essential standard inspected.

 Met this standard This means that the standard was being met in that the provider was compliant with the regulation. If we find that standards were met, we take no regulatory action but we may make comments that may be useful to the provider and to the public about minor improvements that could be made.

 Action needed This means that the standard was not being met in that the provider was non-compliant with the regulation. We may have set a compliance action requiring the provider to produce a report setting out how and by when changes will be made to make sure they comply with the standard. We monitor the implementation of action plans in these reports and, if necessary, take further action. We may have identified a breach of a regulation which is more serious, and we will make sure action is taken. We will report on this when it is complete.

 Enforcement action taken If the breach of the regulation was more serious, or there have been several or continual breaches, we have a range of actions we take using the criminal and/or civil procedures in the Health and Social Care Act 2008 and relevant regulations. These enforcement powers include issuing a warning notice; restricting or suspending the services a provider can offer, or the number of people it can care for; issuing fines and formal cautions; in extreme cases, cancelling a provider or managers registration or prosecuting a manager or provider. These enforcement powers are set out in law and mean that we can take swift, targeted action where services are failing people.

How we define our judgements (continued)

Where we find non-compliance with a regulation (or part of a regulation), we state which part of the regulation has been breached. Only where there is non compliance with one or more of Regulations 9-24 of the Regulated Activity Regulations, will our report include a judgement about the level of impact on people who use the service (and others, if appropriate to the regulation). This could be a minor, moderate or major impact.

Minor impact - people who use the service experienced poor care that had an impact on their health, safety or welfare or there was a risk of this happening. The impact was not significant and the matter could be managed or resolved quickly.

---

Moderate impact - people who use the service experienced poor care that had a significant effect on their health, safety or welfare or there was a risk of this happening. The matter may need to be resolved quickly.

---

Major impact - people who use the service experienced poor care that had a serious current or long term impact on their health, safety and welfare, or there was a risk of this happening. The matter needs to be resolved quickly

---

We decide the most appropriate action to take to ensure that the necessary changes are made. We always follow up to check whether action has been taken to meet the standards.
